

Call for Papers

The 6th Annual Conflict Conference at the Moody College of Communication

The Conflict Conference (TCC) will hold its 2020 conference at the University of Texas at Austin on April 10-11, 2020. TCC is a multidisciplinary annual conference promoting the study of conflict and conflict resolution, management, and transformation. We invite papers, panel proposals and posters on any relevant topic, such as apologies, advocacy, collaboration and cooperation, conflict management, conflict talk, dialogue and deliberation, dispute resolution, environmental disputes, forgiveness, mediation, negotiation, peace, political divisiveness, reconciliation, and restorative justice. Topics on technologically mediated conflicts and ethics are also welcome. With a broad focus on conflict and peace studies in a variety of contexts, TCC encourages participants across disciplinary fields to submit. Work ranging from localized interpersonal conflicts to large-scale policy issues is encouraged. With several options for participation, TCC offers a breadth of perspectives that engenders productive dialogues for scholars and community members. We will feature a keynote presentation by Dr. Gregory Paul of Kansas State University.

Submission Information and Guidelines

The EXTENDED DEADLINE for submissions is January 31, 2020. Notices of acceptance will be sent in early February.

The Conflict Conference welcomes several submission types:

Paper Proposals: 150-word abstract for the program & 600-word extended abstract for review.

Research in Progress: 150-word abstract

Panel Proposals: 150-word abstracts for each panelist with a 150-word description of the panel purpose.

Please use the following link to submit your paper:

https://utexas.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_eY7vSFCQYswPbfv

Full descriptions for the submission types and the conference history can be found at:

<https://commstudies.utexas.edu/research/ut-project-conflict-resolution>